

The boys were always scuffling and fighting with each other for no logical reason. Kind of showing off how strong they were and wanted get rid of their energy.

Such kids are now adult and leaders of their countries.

If they talk to each other, present problems might be solved.

But alas! The guys who became the president or prime minister of each country think they can use the new weapons for protecting their country.

I hope they do not decide their war policy according to the levels of testosterone. Testosterone can be a destructive hormone.

May I suggest to leaders of the countries that before they attend international conferences, please go take care of babies and children in an orphanage for two weeks .

And I would also like to suggest to United States of America the only country which dropped two A bombs on the human race should apologize to the victims of the A Bombs and rest of us.

With this action, leaders of the other countries which have nuclear weapons will realize how important and serious the nuclear problems are for the world, and that we must get rid of those Nuclear weapons and Nuclear Reactors altogether.

No more Wars! No more manufacturing Nukes.

Arms control everywhere!

Let's spread Chapter 9 of the Japanese Peace Constitution!
